Week 5 Premier League Results

To start the Premier League action for the week, Newcastle took on Brentford. Both teams have been in good form, each currently sitting on six points. Newcastle came out on top with a 1-0 win.

The matchup of the week was West Ham vs. Manchester City. West Ham started strong with a 36th-minute goal from James Ward-Prowse, but Manchester City prevailed with a 3-1 win. City currently sits atop the Premier League table in 1st place.

Tottenham continued their dominant run of form with a 2-1 win over Sheffield United. They are only two points behind Manchester City, occupying the second spot. Brighton traveled to Manchester to play against United and the game ended 3-1 in Brighton's favor. Brighton currently occupies the 5th position in the Premier League. On the other hand, United has had a lackluster start to the season, currently in 13th place.

The next game featured Fulham vs. Luton Town. A single goal from Fulham winger, Carlos Vinicius, was enough to ensure a 1-0 victory over Luton Town, who are still searching for their first win this season.

7th place Aston Villa faced off against Crystal Palace. Aston Villa secured a 3-1 win, continuing their dominant run of form by winning three of their last five games. Liverpool maintained their dominance with a 3-1 victory over Wolves. Presently, Liverpool sits in 3rd place in the league, while Wolves are positioned in 16th.

Arsenal traveled to Goodison Park to face Everton. The Gunners emerged victorious with a hard-fought 1-0 win, thanks to a goal from substitute Leandro Trossard. With this win, Arsenal moved into 4th place, whereas Everton lingers in 18th.

Chelsea were also in action this weekend, clashing with Bournemouth. The match ended in a goalless draw. Both sides are currently struggling for form, occupying the 14th and 15th positions on the table respectively. The weekend's action wrapped up with a 1-1 draw between Forest and Burnley.

Very good! 100/100
