Aside from the amazing aesthetic both inside and out, the Honda Civic has many positive qualities that you wouldn't want to miss out on, but let's talk about the looks first. As you can see the design is very clean looking and comes with an abundance of color options. For the interior everything is set up very easy to navigate and you can select which material seats you want between cloth and leather.

Driving this car really feels easy due to how responsive the breaks and turning are. The safety features are through the roof and there are also many additional features which you can choose to use or not use that will make long drives go by quickly. Lane assist, cruise control, and an amazing carplay/navigation system all make driving this car extremely pleasant. So if you're still considering which car to get I would always recommend this one.
