

Daniel Marmorstein

Editor: NBA

Weekly Contributor: LA Lakers

The Los Angeles Lakers are off to a 4-2 start with 3 home victories. Rookie head coach JJ Reddick has implemented a fresh style of play that seems to have hit the ground running. LeBron James still leads the team along with big man Anthony Davis. The James family also welcomed Bronny James Jr to the NBA. He and his dad shared the court on opening night securing a win for both Bronny and Coach Reddick's debut. With young talents Dalton Knecht, Max Christie, and Maxwell Lewis getting some games under their belt, the Lakers are hoping to develop that second unit they have not had since their last championship. The Lakers play the Pistons on November 4th in Detroit.